THE Christmas bells, that rang out so joyously one week ago, heralding the dawn of another birthday of our blessed Lord, who gave us this Christian world, and all the blessings which He has showered upon us—the beautiful gifts, and the festival, arranged, not only for our own pleasure, but to bring joy to the hearts of all within our reach, is today a pleasant memory. As the last hour of midnight, tolled, the year nineteen hundred and nine, passed away, and today is the birth of a beautiful New Year, her robe of azure, befitting her youth, her innocent brow crowned with fair promises, for a year of peace, and blessings, which may be ours, if we but keep it, a true year. The year which has just passed, was replete with health, wealth and happiness. No war or pestilence, menaced our beautiful island city; an abundant harvest, brought prosperity, enabling the generous ones, who reaped so abundantly, to show their gratitude to an all wise Ruler, by filling the cups of others, giving good measure, "pressed down, and running over." We cannot sum up the many benefits, which have fallen to our lot, and each year, brings a larger train of blessings. The happy faces we meet, are but a reflex of the thoughts within—to do, and to be, and to make the year nineteen hundred and ten, a record for scattering good seed, and to reap the harvest. The past holiday week, has been unusually quiet, the inclement weather no doubt had some share in cutting out certain social functions, scheduled for this happy season.

Mrs. Walter Frear's Dinner.

Already, the home of Governor and Mrs. Frear was the setting for a very pretty Christmas dinner on Friday last. The entertainment was almost entirely a family affair, every one had an enjoyable time, but the usual holiday could not help but miss Governor Frear, who is always so thoughtful and affable to those who partake of his hospitality. The home was artistically decorated in holly, Christmas berries, and smilax. Dinner was served at seven o'clock and the table was a picture in scarlet and green. Among those present were: Mrs. Walter Frear, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Dillingham, Doctor and Mrs. Philip Frear, Mr. and Mrs. Bradward Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Erdman, Miss Claire and Mr. Walter Dillingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilder's Dinner.

On Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilder entertained in honor of Ex-Governor and Mrs. Geo. R. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder. The table was beautiful in red roses and candelabra with shades of the same color. Among those who partook of Mr. and Mrs. Wilder's hospitality were: Hon. and Mrs. George Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder and Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder.

Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse's Dinner.

An elaborate dinner was given by Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse at her Nuanu Valley home, Wednesday evening. The decorations were unique and beautiful; over the center of the table was arranged a canopy of red double tulle, and smilax. This canopy was attached to the chandelier, the twinkling electric lights, dressed in hibiscus shades, intermingled with the red flowers produced a most pleasing effect. These beautiful flowers were strewn over the cloth. In such profusion, that not a vestige of the snowy covering appeared; hand-painted place cards decorated with hibiscus designated the places of the guests. Among those present were: Mrs. Ernest Waterhouse, Mrs. Alexander G. Hawes Jr., Miss Nanale Winston of Virginia, Mr. Jack McKinnon, Mr. Kay, Mr. Hedemann and Mr. David Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Tenney's Poi Supper.

One of the most elaborate functions of the season was the poi supper given Thursday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Wilder. This affair was given prior to this popular couple's departure for a trip around the world. Mr. and Mrs. Wilder are kamaainas of Honolulu. All the guests invited were warm personal friends of the guests of honor, and also kamaainas, so the deliciously served supper was done justice to, and thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Everything was served in Hawaiian style, and all the dishes were Hawaiian. The table was exquisite, every one being seated at a long table which was decorated in ferns, ti leaves, malle and holly. At each place beautiful holly leis were found, intermingled with malle. After supper, the evening was devoted to music and bridge. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tenny, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit P. Wilder, Hon. and Mrs. George R. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Wilder, Doctor and Mrs. George Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dowsett, Mr. and Mrs. James Wilder, Miss May Damon and Doctor Armstrong Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Schaefer's Dinner.

Tuesday evening the Schaefer luncheon on Thurston avenue was the setting for a very pretty dinner given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Vance, who are spending their honeymoon in the islands. Roses were used throughout this artistic home, as a decoration. After dinner the party motored through the suburbs of Honolulu.

Mr. Sherwood Lowrey's Dinner.

In honor of Mr. Derwent Kennedy—who has been spending the Xmas holidays with his mother and father, Mr. Frederick Lowrey gave a beautifully appointed dinner at his home on Victoria and Lunalilo streets on Tuesday evening. The long table, on which the dinner was served was bedecked with red roses, while hand-painted silver candelabra with red shades cast a becoming glow over the assembled guests. The place cards were hand-painted Hawaiian scenes. After dinner bridge whist was enjoyed by a number of the guests. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Schaefer, Mr. Derwent Kennedy, Mr. Sherwood Lowrey, Miss Alice Hiedemann, Miss Nora Sturtevant, Miss Beatrice Castle, Miss Julia White, Miss Anna Tucker, Miss Tenney, Mr. George Brown, Mr. Harold Castle, Mr. Frederick Lowrey and Doctor Hedemann.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Klamp's New Year's Party.

Last evening the house warming given by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Klamp at their new bungalow at Kalahele was a great success and greatly enjoyed by the fortunate ones that were asked to partake of the Klamp's hospitality. At 6:30 the twenty guests that were invited, were met by their host and hostess at the Young Hotel, and conveyed in a trolley to the suburban home of the Klamps. A delicious supper was awaiting them and after the long ride full justice was done to the repast; after dinner several rubbers of bridge was played; promptly at midnight, toasts were drunk to the New Year, witty speeches made, and a thoroughly good time enjoyed, which will linger as a pleasant memory to those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamburg's Dinner.

New Year's Eve was celebrated in a very delightful way by Mr. and Mrs. Hamburg at their home, at a dinner which was given in honor of a dozen friends. The table was fragrant in hot house flowers and maidens hair ferns and unique place cards designated the places for the guests. Among Mr. and Mrs. Hamburg's guests were Doctor and Mrs. George Herbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buchley, Mr. and Mrs. L. Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Forster and Mr. and Mrs. Bartell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McStocker's Dinner.

The beautiful colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McStocker was the scene of much merriment on Friday evening, the event was a dinner, given in honor of Christmas. The dinner was served at seven o'clock, the table decorations were in scarlet, the holiday color. The interior of this artistic home was decorated in holly, ever greens, Christmas berries and malle. Covers were laid for ten, among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank McStocker, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter of California, Miss Lydia McStocker, Mrs. J. W. Saunders of San Francisco, Cal., Miss Julie McStocker and others.

Mrs. Cathoun Anacrum wife of Lieutenant Anacrum, U. S. M. C., left this week on the Hiloan. Mrs. Anacrum will visit her husband's people in Camden, South Carolina and her mother's people in Kentucky. Lieutenant Anacrum expects to be ordered away from here in February to join his wife then. This popular couple have been residing at Makiki street.

Mrs. James Robert Pourie will leave Wednesday on the transport for San Francisco. Mrs. Pourie has been called very suddenly to the mainland, and on that account has been compelled to abandon her plans for the elaborate tea which was to have been given January 10th at Fort Ruger. This popular woman will be greatly missed in the society circles of Honolulu, and it is to be hoped that the Honolulu people can accord her a welcome, before long to their sunny shores.

Mrs. Hornberger, wife of Paymaster Hornberger of the Navy, will give a card party on January 9th. The event will be a celebration of the wedding anniversary of this charming couple. The invitations have not been issued, but will be sent out the first of next week.

Last evening Major and Mrs. Samuel Dunning entertained at dinner in honor of their house guest, General Barry. Covers were laid for twelve. Many witty speeches were made, and interesting toasts given. The guests remained with their host and hostess to see the "old year out and the new year in."

Judge and Mrs. Quarles have moved from Kewalo street to Thurston avenue. The latter and her charming young daughter will be home to their many friends on Mondays of each month.

The numerous friends of Mrs. Joseph Austin, nee Mayme Wadman will be delighted to know that she will not join her husband in Manila, Ensign Austin was not detached from the South Dakota as was expected but will arrive here with the Pacific Fleet on the first of February. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Austin will probably live at Mare Island, Cal. After the ships leave this port, the latter will take the first liner and join her husband in San Francisco.

Col. Biddle of the U. S. Engineer Corps is the guest of Major and Mrs. Winslow at their Waikiki home.

Mabelle Biggart of New York city known as a Sunshine Preacher and more widely known as "Dinah, the Preacher" on two continents by her presentation of that character in George Eliot's great work, "Adam Bede." She was born on the Hudson; her earliest education being acquired in Western New York State and Philadelphia. She is of Scotch-English and Puritan ancestry. Among her ancestors are Thomas Carlyle and Jane Welsh Porter. She was trained for the stage by Dion Boucicault and the great Shakespearean teacher John B. Roberts of the old school of Macready and Lemuel White. The school which made Pootch, McCaull and the late Modjeska. Through opposition from her family she did not enter stage life but took a college professorship for a brief few years of literature and oratory, and made her dramatizations from French, German and English literature. "Miss Biggart is a guest in our city and stopping at the Alexander Young Hotel. Miss Biggart is a woman of remarkable versatility. She is a writer and traveler, ethnologist and sociologist and within the last ten years while seeking different climes for health has visited many primitive peoples for historical and scientific research and given the message of Christ as she has gone en route; also her "Travels of many lands" and her interpretative dramatization of Adam Bede—she being considered chief exponent of George Eliot's great work—Adam Bede. Miss Biggart entered special pulp work—evangelical—in London, England in 1900; after having consecrated her gifts to the highest ends. Formerly she was known in her College professorships and her dramatizations and short story writing; the last few years as has been stated have been spent on the European continent and the adjacent islands and British Colonies including New Foundland, Labrador and St. Pierre, Miquelon, Scandinavian Countries and Northern Europe. On Miss Biggart's return to New York City a little over 4 years ago she became Chairman of the Ethnological Department of the National Indian Association (which was created for her) and made a trip with a party arranged for her to the Navajors and Hopis in Arizona giving message to them. In autumn she returned to New York and espoused their cause along with her special sermons in that city. Miss Biggart is endorsed by several denominations, also by Rev. R. J. Campbell, Pastor of the City Temple, London, England and the renowned Rev. F. B. Meyer of the same place. It was Miss Biggart's wish to be utilized in her own city and state, she accepted an associate pastorate work just across the river on the Brooklyn side but broke down in health and went to Southern California expecting to be well in a few weeks; instead, she was forced to accept an outdoor life which she says is better on the Pacific Coast or islands of the Pacific than being six feet under ground in New York City. While in Los Angeles, Miss Biggart says: "I was invited by Mr. Abbot Kinney of Venice to institute my sunshine services in that great auditorium for the summer of 1907 and here I gained the term of the sunshine preacher," as you know it is a seaside with a floating population from everywhere—I can safely say I went to the sick, the dying and the dead and tried to put into practice my principles. I am happy to say the philanthropic organization that I left behind with some of the ladies and especially under the leadership of my friend (Dr. J. M. White) which is termed "the Venice of America Sunshine Club" has done effective work since I left, and are still doing what I desired them to do for gentile, educated but broken down men and women whom it is so hard for the ordinary worker to understand or do for. You ask me what I intend to do for the Hawaiian Islands. All that you will permit me to do, I ask cooperation and your support for the second book of my series which will be on the Hawaiian Islands and will be entitled, Aloha, Hawaii."
